Brief Explanation of Evidence:

The Second Grade students at Prospect Hill school are preparing a musical play to be performed on June 15. It is based on a book by Eric Carle, A House for Hermit Crab. The project is being done in conjunction with the second grade science curriculum, in which the students study animals of the sea. In their science classes, the students came up with eight facts about each sea animal. They brought those facts to their music classes, and used the facts to write songs with the music teacher. The songs they wrote will be sung in the play. While writing the songs, the students were required to follow certain guidelines, such as incorporating rhymes and the use of proper musical rhythm.
